DIRECTORS FOREWORD

We are delighted to be able to bring Plymouth Art Weekender back for 2024 after a 4 year hiatus. Since the pandemic, uncertainty has been felt deeply across the creative arts, and to be able to offer this platform for artists in Plymouth and the wider region is a real honour. It would be fair to say that up until recently there were still doubts that we could bring it back in the current climate, but thanks to support from many of the cultural institutions in the city, leaders of commerce, Arts Council England, as well as the tireless and enthusiastic efforts of the many artists and art workers in the city, we are very proud to be able to re-launch Plymouth's city-wide DIY arts festival!

In 2024 we are focussing on the richly diverse practices that Plymouth is home to, and setting the tone for Plymouth Art Weekender to become a biennial festival that celebrates cultural endeavour in the city and across the peninsula. It is fair to say that after a brief break in the festival the programme of events on offer this year feels fertile with new energy and possibility, and being able to stage this alongside New Contemporaries allows us to engage with artists from a multitude of backgrounds. As we also build up to Jeremy Deller's The Triumph of Art, a major new UK-wide commission as part of The National Galleries bicentennial celebrations taking place in the summer of 2025, it is clear that Plymouth's cultural star is still firmly in its ascendancy.

The world has felt increasingly unstable and scary for many of us in recent times, and festivals like this permit us the opportunity to have challenging dialogues that perhaps allows us to imagine an alternative future whilst also offering hope in the potential of our collective agency. As a home to many cultural education opportunities, we need to bear in mind the many brilliant creative futures that are being cultivated here in Plymouth and provide as many platforms as possible to engage with these to better equip ourselves for the road ahead.

We are ever thankful to our partners, sponsors, artists and audiences, who make our festival what it is and bring many people together to celebrate the wealth of creativity that makes Plymouth a cultural beacon for the south west and the country. We hope that you enjoy Plymouth Art Weekender 2024 and the many events, activities and exhibitions on offer, and we look forward to welcoming you back in 2026.

WELCOME TO PLYMOUTH ART WEEKENDER 2024

We are back!

Plymouth Art Weekender is a celebration of Plymouth's rich and diverse creative community, and this year's theme-Do it yourself, help each other out-captures the collaborative spirit that flourishes among artists in the city and beyond. Throughout the weekend, you'll discover a vibrant mix of visual art, hands-on workshops, and exciting events, bringing creativity to every corner of Plymouth.

The Weekender showcases Plymouth's homegrown talent while welcoming artists from across the UK to share their work. From emerging creatives to established names, the program offers something for everyone, whether you're an art enthusiast, a creator, or simply curious. Expect to experience art in unexpected spaces—from galleries and pop-ups to outdoor installations and community venues—each contributing to the unique atmosphere of the event. This year marks a special moment as we re-launch the Weekender as a highlight in Plymouth's cultural calendar. We're bringing together the best of DIY culture with the wealth of talent that calls Plymouth home, setting the stage for an exciting new chapter in our city's cultural landscape, while showcasing the incredible programs offered by our partner venues, galleries, and museums.

Whether you're engaging with art for the first time or a regular at the Weekender, there's something for everyone to explore and enjoy. Let's celebrate the power of collaboration, creativity, and community together!

SUPPORTED PROJECT

LOW PROFILE

BIO

LOW PROFILE are artists Rachel Dobbs (IRL) and Hannah Rose (UK). They live and work in Plymouth, and have been working together in collaboration since 2003.

They are most interested in the connections between people, and creating new experiences that happen in people's real life. They use things like bold statements, text, badges, sound, temporary gatherings, and event-structures to help us do this. They make art that is designed to be encountered in social situations, public spaces and become part of people's everyday. They work hard to make these encounters hopeful, engaging, joyful and thought-provoking.

A new artwork by LOW PROFILE made in partnership with Plymouth Scrapstore and Big Ups.

ANYTHING YOU CAN THINK OF /
EVERYTHING YOU CAN IMAGINE

Rachel Dobbs & Hannah Rose
image credit Dom Moore 2020

EVERYTHING
IMAGINE

The artwork celebrates Plymouth Scrapstore which supports people to be creative in inventive and resourceful ways whilst offering an alternative model for consumption based on rethinking 'waste' as a resource, demonstrating that sustainable systems of exchange are possible (and vital).

The phrases are reflective of some of the things that people often say about the experience of visiting The Scrapstore, and have been chosen in consultation with The Scrapstore team. The two-way text presented points towards the potential held within the building (and its people, practices and values) and draws attention to the importance of expansive thinking, taking new perspectives, imagining different ways of doing things, and the importance of creativity. The artwork is also inspired by a piece installed in front of Spike Island, Bristol which also uses the format of a two way text read across a concertina garage door (no laughing / no barking).

Anything You Can Think Of / Everything You Can Imagine (2024) was made with the support and encouragement of Plymouth Scrapstore who also donated vinyl (material already in their store) to realise the work. Big Ups helped us in our planning stages, allowed us to prepare the work in their studios and supported installing the work (giving the majority of their time in-kind).

FOLLOW THE DRAGONS

Follow the Dragons is an interactive game, promoting community access for young people in need of orientation and social support, developed by artist duo Manifest in 2022, in response to British Art Show 9.

Illustrator Louise Rabey and multidisciplinary artist Gabi Marcellus-Temple both have a strong interest in access and inclusion, particularly regarding mental health and disability, and these are strong themes within their work.

This project came about during Gabi's previous use of a wheelchair, which led to a discussion of the way that disabled people have to use different routes to navigate public spaces and cultural venues. For example, someone using a wheelchair may need to travel further along a road to use a dropped kerb, whereas other people just step off the kerb without thinking about it. Similarly, Louise's experience with social anxiety also led to the realisation of multiple other ways in which people with mental health issues or neurodivergent people have to navigate their surroundings, such as walking further in order to take a quieter, less crowded route.

Manifest developed 'Follow the Dragon' to use the concept of 'choose your own adventure' books and games to make navigating the community more approachable and engaging, with an interactive website where players can choose which way their character - a dragon, hence the name! - travels from one cultural venue to another. They might even have to go down steep slopes to reflect a wheelchair moving or find the spinning button by a road crossing which visually impaired people use so that they know when it's safe to cross.

For this year's Plymouth Art Weekender, Gabi and Louise are relaunching dragons Rocky and his helper Herman, the wheelchair-using dragon who lives at KARST Gallery, and Rollo, the socially anxious dragon who lives at the Levinsky Gallery. They'll be joined by two new dragons, each with their own route to follow around Plymouth - Mirabelle, who lives at MIRROR and is visually impaired, and Boxer, who is neurodivergent and lives at the Box.

An essential part of the project has been to fund it effectively and ensure that experts by experience - disabled people, in this case - are fairly paid for their work and knowledge. Thanks to POP+ Collectives, who funded the project's relaunch, they've been able to partner with Creative Curiosities CIC to run an additional series of workshops exploring access and inclusion through creativity with a group of neurodivergent people.

You can catch up with Gabi and Louise for a guided walk in Plymouth using the Follow the Dragons game on Sunday 20th October at 2pm, meeting outside the front entrance to the Box.

STILL MOVING - EVERYONE YOU'RE LOOKING AT IS ALSO YOU

A re-installation of materials used in the series of illuminated text sculptures, originally installed by Still Moving at multiple locations Including at COP 26- Glasgow, COP27- Sharm El-Sheikh, G7 Summit- Cornwall.

Here, they are used to present, in the centenary year of his birth, the words of writer and civil rights activist James Baldwin. As a city Plymouth can embody community cohesion and we believe this phrase emphasises that.

'Love has never been a popular movement. And no one's ever wanted, really, to be free. The world is held together, really it is held together, by the love and the passion of a very few people. Otherwise, of course, you can despair. Walk down the street of any city, any afternoon, and look around you. What you've got to remember is what you're looking at is also you. Everyone you're looking at is also you. You could be that person.'

UNEXPECTED CROSSINGS

CYLENA SIMONDS,
SIENA VENTURINO-MALCHERCZYK,
SIMONE MARCONI

Unexpected Crossings is an exhibition of our (Cylena Simonds, Siena Venturino-Malcherczyk, Simone Marconi) current work in progress. We met as participants in the British Council Fellowship for the 60th Venice Biennial. In the beginning, we were three strangers. Then over the course of a month we began to reflect on our experiences of living as "foreigners" both in Venice and in the UK. We also found that our practices shared strategic uses of allegory, narrative and storytelling to discuss wider issues. We are excited to see what new understandings may arise from the crossing of our work.

Simone will be responding directly to the space featuring his satirical take on the Anthropocene. Siena's work will feature cartoonish tree figures embracing within the space. Cylena will show some of her ceramic works featuring her unique take on Kintsugi. You may see one of us working in the space during PAW as a pop up studio. Feel free to ask us about our process.
